			Brinagar	Plantation Drive	The initiative, held in collaboration with the department of social forestry, local cooperative bodies, saw the active participation of PACS members, cooperative officials, and local residents, who collectively planted numerous saplings across various identified sites. The plantation drive is part of a broader strategy to enhance green cover in the region under IYC 2025, while engaging cooperative societies in climate-conscious activities. The main event held at Cooperative training Institute was graced by the presence of Principal CTL Ms. Bibhasa Jen along with staff members and students. In her address the chief guest stated that the drive aims not only to combat the effects of climate change but also to foster a spirit of collective responsibility among the cooperative societies. The plantation drive is a step toward making our cooperative movement environmentally proactive and socially responsive. PACS have a vital role in rural development, and initiatives like this extend their impact beyond financial services. The planted saplings included a mix of ornamental and native trees, selected based on the ecological needs of each area. Emphasis was placed on community maintenance and monitoring of the planted trees to ensure their survival and long-term benefit. This initiative has been well received by local communities and cooperative members, with many expressing enthusiasm for participating in future environmental activities organized under the cooperative framework. With growing concerns about environmental degradation and climate change, such community-driven efforts mark a positive shift toward sustainable development in the valley.
